SURE DEATH
TO
Insects of all Kinds,
Is the result of the use of
Dalmatian Insect Powder,
which is SAFE to use and HARMLESS to human life. A few puffs of the dust blown into the air of a room with the doors closed, directed towards those parts where flies are congregated, will stupify and kill them in a very short time. Our constantly increasing sales comprove that a single trial according to directions will establish this fact.

SKILLFUL SURGERY!
Removal of Urinary Calculi by the Knife.
A LUCKY MAN.
Mr. Simeon Tietsel of Saugerties, N. Y., has been treated for seven years by various physicians for what they call Stone in the Bladder, with no benefit. He finally consulted Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., who found his trouble to be Urinary Calculi, or Stones in the Bladder. The Doctor at once removed the foreign bodies with the knife and then gave his great Blood Specific, "Favorite Remedy" to prevent their reformation. The entire treatment was eminently successful, and Mr. Tietsel's recovery was rapid and perfect.
While "Favorite Remedy" is a specific in all Kidney and Bladder diseases it is equally valuable in cases of Piles or Diseases of the Bowels, and all the class of diseases resulting from the constitutions of women. Try it. Your druggist has it, and the cost is only one dollar a bottle. The lucky man in the case published above is in practice. Don't forget the name and address: Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, New York.

INFLUENCE OF THE PRESS UPON THE FARMER AND HIS SURROUNDINGS.
BY RICHARD GOODMAN.

Madame De Stael wrote a treatise entitled "The influence of Literature upon Society," the object of which was to show the reciprocal influences of literature, religion, manners and laws. A gentleman recently travelling through Massachusetts on horseback, accompanied by his son on a bicycle, noted how much better than a few years ago bred was all the various hostelries, and ascribed the improvement to the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia, where the Vienna and other bread created in many a new appetite for cereals, and taught the hitherto untraveled Yankee woman how much virtue there is in the "staff of life," if made properly. But other influences have been at work for improvement not only of bread but of all other matters connected with agriculture and home comforts and another De Stael might find amusement in tracing to the fountain heads the diverse causes which have put yeast into the whole leaven of rural society, and not only prevented its dropping to a European level but so elevated it that as has been remarked by an intelligent English traveler, among the working classes of the United States there are no common people. That is, we have here no low grade of agricultural laborers as in Great Britain and generally on the Continent, but as the English girl on a visit here, said, when rebuked for skating in company with a butcher boy "she was not certain but he might yet be President of the United States." So there is a feeling at the bottom of all the hopes and aspirations of even the sons of the most moderate farmer and artizan that the highest positions in civil life can be reached by any one whose talents command success, without being handicapped by the accidents of birth or occupation.

Perhaps the three most prominent influences which have tended to the improvement of agriculture and its advance practically and scientifically have been the agricultural departments of the local newspapers, the town county and State societies with their annual exhibitions or cattle shows, and the example of the gentlemen of means with tastes for farming, who have in all portions of the country entered as a wedge between the adhesive habits of the plodding farmer, and broken into them, and emancipated him from their control. The agricultural schools and colleges whose influences are just beginning to be felt, hardly made any impression on the start, owing to the prejudices of the old fashioned miller of the soul against "book larning," and what he called the "new fangled notions" of scientific instructors, and it is only now when the young men, more ambitious than their sires return from these schools and put in practical operation what they have learned, and develop the resources of the farm and turn their knowledge into money, that these creations of the general government are estimated at their true value, and we shall yet find them appreciated more and more highly by the whole community agricultural and otherwise.

But it is the continual dropping that wears into even the stone, and conservative as the farmer is, and ever has been, no influence less continuous, progressive and punctuative than the constant preaching of the agricultural departments of local papers could have softened his pachydermatous nature, and prepared it for the many irregular activities which have assisted in converting the modern agriculturist into the humane biped he has become, and his farm into its present, comparatively lucrative source of income. I say "humane," for the old-fashioned, non-reading farmer was, and is, inhuman, especially to women and "other cattle" under his control, and he looked with callous indifference upon the slavish existence of the female head of his household, who rose at daylight to get his breakfast, and toiled the live-long day at the wash tub, the butter-making, in the kitchen let the cooking and ironing, and risking her life going to and from the distant privy through the wet grass, and brought the wood from the shed, being lucky if she did not have to split it herself, and the water a dozen times a day from the well, rushing then into the cold and wet from the overheated kitchen.

Those of us who are living in the more enlightened portions of the country think that all these evils have passed away, and wonder that the agricultural papers yet harp upon that string; but there are many farmers and even villagers well to-do in the world with thorough bred cows worth hundreds of dollars each, and fancy horses, who yet live in their kitchens, sleep all summer in feather beds, eschew fresh meat and vegetables in proper variety, know and care nothing about the conveniences of the earth closet, snuff the odors of the sink refuse under the buttery window, see their women fume away before their eyes and rust in Providence, and that great secret of wealth formulated by Dr. Franklin and so much abused by his countrymen. "Waste not, want not." Keep it. What an existence for a rational human being do many of these farmers and their families lead day after day subordinating themselves to work and accumulation of substance depriving themselves of all comforts, to say nothing of the luxuries which all are entitled to in the language, even enjoying food not for the enjoyment of it, but as a means of existence, and selecting it for its cheapness and not even for its wholesomeness, going the rounds of the daily toil in the house, in the tanner's yard or foundrie more mechanically exerted than men, and working all annoyances and rational exercises as improper interruptions of their avocation.

I know no fancy picture even of New England farmer's existence for one of all its drudgery, but recently died near me who labored so from dawn to dark that he was unable to lay aside his hat in his bed and had often to kneel at a chair not in thanksgiving for blessings vouchsafed, for he wouldn't receive any but to get repose which relieved the aching of his over worked body. The whole household, and especially the women, had to keep pace with his murderous pace, ride the cattle deprived of fresh air in ill ventilated tables were sick and filthy, and the only consolation of these poor rich people's existence was that their money enabled them to hire enjoyment of what they possessed in abundance beautifully less.

It will be time enough for the newspaper crusade to forbear the constant warnings when the farming men are willing to provide the wives with everything necessary for their comfort and [illegible] a fair share of the farm profit, when the earth or water-closet replace the horrible privy which therefore of the sink is carried underground to a distance from the house, when the water is accessible in the kitchen by means of a pump, when the wood-pile and cistern are handy to reach without a pair of snowshoes to figure with the consumptive of women and children who have not as the men have the continual antidote of fresh air when a portion of each day is devoted to sociogenical relief from work, whether driving, walking or visiting, and the evenings are enlivened by sociable conversation, reading or amusements, when the children are not overworked but afforded all the advantages of education and a party of fun, when the cattle are kept clean and healthy the hay cut early, the garden looked upon as an important adjunct to the enjoyment and preservation of health, and when the farmer looks upon himself and family as deserving of all the reasonable comforts and enjoyments of life as any other human creature, and does so for himself and them.

COMING!

It will be seen by reference to our telegraphic columns, that H. D. Hadlock, Esq., of Bucksport, a leading Democrat in Hancock county, and one of the prominent lawyers of the State yesterday, at the county convention in Ellsworth, took his stand for the Republican cause. Mr. Hadlock's intentions in this direction have been known for some time, and this is consequently no sudden step. While he parts company with the Democratic party on the currency question, there are other causes that have led to this happy result, conspicuous among them the State Steal, which at the time Mr. Hadlock denounced with all his great power and earnestness. The espousal of the Republican cause by so influential and intelligent a gentleman, will set others to thinking who have felt the gradual sundering of the ستاس that have bound them to the once respectable Democratic party. "And still there's more to follow."

Where one has the boldness to come out and announce publicly his intention, scores are waiting for the thirteenth of September, when the little piece of paper which they shall deposit in the ballot box will contain, briefly written, their farewell address to the Democratic and Fusion parties.

One of the most influential, clearest-headed, and wealthiest business men in Buffalo, who has been a life-long Democrat, said to a representative of the Buffalo Commercial that he could not go with the Democracy this Fall, but should vote for Garfield and Arthur. The reason he gave for changing were that the Democracy is under the control of the South, and that Southern Democrats are altogether too loose in their financial notions to suit him or to allow him to act with them.

OUR MAINE CROPS.

The Maine Farmer will this week devote considerable of its space in giving reports from its correspondents in various parts of the State, and some from the Provinces, showing the condition of the crops as they appeared on the first day of August. Under the circumstances, considering the protracted drouth which many complain of, these reports are highly gratifying. The hay crop, the most indispensable and valuable of all our farm crops has been secured and is the best for years and probably equal to any ever before harvested. The drouth appears to have been local and not general, for while some points in the interior have been severely pinched, others scarcely suffered at all, and all along the sea-coast and in Aroostook all the crops have remained fresh and continued to grow and flourish. Corn promises to be better than last year and unless damaged by early frosts, the yield will be larger. All grains in some localities have been damaged by the drouth, while in other places they never promised better. The acreage, especially that of wheat, is larger than that of last year, and the indications are that the aggregate yield will be fully as great.

Throughout Aroostook county, the immense fields of wheat, potatoes and oats are looking splendidly. Potato tops cover the ground, the wheat is coming forward rapidly and an abundant harvest is everywhere assured. The striped bug appears to have done no damage to vines, and we may expect a good yield of pumpkins and squashes. Peas and beans promise well. Reports on the apple crop are not uniform, in some localities they are highly encouraging while in others they will does not promise so well as last year. The crop in the State, however, will be much better than last year and will be sufficient for all our wants. Feed in pastures has held out remarkably well, and the recent rains will insure an ample supply of fall feed. The cheese factories, so far as we have heard, have had a very good season. To sum up, the farmers of Maine and of the Maritime Provinces have every reason to rejoice and be thankful at the promised result of the season's work. They have labored hard and diligently in putting in their crops and in protecting them from their numerous enemies, both animate and inanimate, and have arrived at that point where they can look forward with reasonable expectations to a joyful Harvest Home. The result of the season's operations is such as to encourage agriculture in this State. It shows that no business is sure of making adequate returns, and none is more enjoyable and healthful. The hay crop in Maine the present year is worth more than the cotton grown in many of the Southern States, where cotton is the chief crop. The average yield of wheat per acre in Maine, is greater than that of most of the so called wheat growing States, and in potatoes we can beat any State in the Union. Let us then persevere in our noble work, that of tilling the soil, the primitive occupation of man and the grandest for which he has ever engaged.

WHERE IS THE FUSION LEGISLATURE?

[From the Kennebec Journal.]

Thursday was the 5th of August, the day to which the fusion "legislature" adjourned to meet in Augusta, when they closed up business last winter. Has any one seen them? We miss the picturesque Moses Harriman and his dramatic recital of the "events which thrilled his blood." Where is Swan and his thousand dollars which he is to devote to some charitable object? And that long-haired apostle of fusion, Rev. Henry Wiles of Biddeford, where, oh where is he? Again we are ready to greet the counted in Best of Durham, Hill of Exeter and Dr Bradbury of Norway with his frightful stories of robbery and corruption. We sigh for Speaker Talbot with his gold-bowed spectacles astride his nose; we long to see the tall form of Dickey of Portland, and the fiery Plaisted of Lincoln. Where is the "Daily Standard," the official paper of the only original and genuine legislature? We miss its playful flings at the clergy and the militia, and its cutting sarcasm when it spoke of the "troopes." We have Tom Murphy, the would be State printer, and Cameron the bookbinder, left us, but the rest are vanished, and the fusion debating club is now

"Shelved into air, into thin air
And like the insolent labric of a vision
The unsubstantial pageant fading,
Leaves not a wrack behind."

THE MAINE CAMPAIGN.

An enthusiastic Republican writes: "We like your paper because it goes for the enemy's pelts. Give them ——! that is where they ought to be. I fought the rebels four years, and I am ready to fight them till death. If every Republican does his duty they will be politically dead, dead, after election.

The bravest Democrats in Maine, calling themselves Temperance Prohibitionists will hold a convention in Portland, it is said, and nominate a candidate for Governor. No Republican will be deceived by this movement, because they know that those who lead in it are laboring solely to defeat the Republican party. They bear the same relation to the Democratic party that the bitter Copperheads in the North did to the rebels in arms during the war.—Boston Journal.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Post, displays great fortitude in its treatment of Maine politics. The same stern, vindicatory logic which leads it to the support of Fusion ticket, if applied at home, would have landed it in the bosom of Gen. Butler last year and the year before. But it was not applied here by four discriminating contemporary, though Gen. Butler's managers were never guilty of such grave offences as the confusionists of Maine committed last year. We regret that the Post does not see its way clear to stand with the better class of Democrats, who take no stock in the unholy alliance in Maine.—Boston Herald.

The Boston Herald well says:

"Of course, in such a fight there are amusing things turning up here and there. Nothing funnier has come to the front than the appointment by the central authority of an organization of war veterans who support Hancock of Gen. Samuel J. Anderson to be one of their officers for this State. That old militia title deceived the innocent young men who had the business in charge. If they had followed out the plan in which they started, Gen. Gorham L. Boynton would have been made one of those officers of veterans.

There is not a man in the Republican party who isn't confident of victory and who isn't willing to take off his coat and work to help win it. That is what makes the outlook so bright. There, too, Providence is once more on the Republican side. The bountiful harvests, the brisk ness of trade, and the demand for labor all contribute to make Republican votes. When Hancock was first nominated, several sanguine Democrats were moved to remark "By George, we've got 'em at last!" It was merely a fresh case of misplaced confidence.—New York Tribune.

The Republican party is solid, and it has a solid North behind it.

NUTS FOR THE FUSIONISTS TO CRACK.

How Oliver P. Bragdon's Name Was Changed,

AND BRAGDON COUNTED OUT.

Oliver P Bragdon

The Representative return from the town of Gouldsboro', when it came into the hands of the investigating committee, disclosed upon its face that the initial letter P in the name of Oliver P. Bragdon, Republican candidate, had been tampered with and changed from a P to a B. The name in this column is a fac simile of the name as it was found. The letter as will be seen, now looks more like a B than a P. S. W. Libbey, the town Clerk of Gouldsboro', appeared before the committee, produced the town record, and testified that the name of Oliver P Bragdon was written by himself, that he was well acquainted with the name and knew he never wrote it Oliver B Bragdon, that the erasure and addition to the P was made after it left the town where it was sealed up. It appeared from this town record that the name was invariably written Oliver P Bragdon, and that the letter P was uniformly made in the same manner, the loop forming the top of the letter resting against the body of the letter without any addition. Look at the two B's and see how unlike they are, that the return was sealed up, and that when it left Gouldsboro it bore the name of Oliver P. and not Oliver B. The record of the town was Oliver P. The testimony of Councillor Moody shows that the return was Oliver P when it was received at Augusta

Oliver P Bragdon was the Republican candidate for representative from the town of Gouldsboro', James Flye was the fusion candidate. Mr Bragdon received 207 votes and Mr. Flye 123. Had the votes been counted as thrown Mr Bragdon would have been declared elected. But the Tabulators concluded to steal a representative from the Gouldsboro' class and the easiest way to do it was to commit forgery. Therefore forgery was resorted to

The following is the testimony of Councillor Moody on the subject

Q Do you remember the circumstances in the case of the Gouldsborough Representative—Oliver P Bragdon?

A Yes, I remember that

Q Whose name was first written in the report of the Committee as being the duly and legally elected Representative?

A. Oliver P. Bragdon.

Q. The Republican candidate?

A. I have since learned it was, but did not know then.

Q. Was that afterwards changed, and the Democratic candidate's name written in the place of Mr Bragdon?

A Mr Flye was given a seat, and his name put in the report.

Q Mr Bragdon's name scratched out and Mr Flye's name written in?

A Yes

Q. Do you remember the reason for it?

A I think in the Gouldsborough matter that I must have made a mistake in getting the name "Oliver P Bragdon" when it was Oliver B?

Q. What do you mean by that?

A. That as I should have been put down "Oliver B" when I wrote it Oliver P. But we went over and verified it—that is, compared the returns with the tabulations—it was found that the return was "B." When it was first written down it was "P." There was some talk about the letter "B" and I carried it to the Governor, and he said "Governor, I must have made a mistake in this matter, what do you call that a B for?" He says, 'can't you tell a B from a P?' That is all there was said about it

Q You had, in first examining it, called it "B?"

A I did not examine it the first time closely

Q You must have made some examination?

A Yes, of course, I supposed it was a "B."

Q Were not the returns from the other towns in the district for "Oliver P Bragdon?"

A Yes, I think so.

Q In looking over the Gouldsborough return, you called that "Oliver P," and tabulated all the votes as for "Oliver P. Bragdon?"

A Yes, but I will not be sure I looked critically.

Q In your first examination of the returns, all the other towns were "Oliver P.," and you called Gouldsborough "Oliver B?"

A Yes, but I couldn't swear that it was "Oliver B?" to-day.

Q How long after that before your attention was again called to the Bragdon case, and the returns from Gouldsborough?

A I am sure I don't know, I can't say how long a time it was between the verifying and when it was made up originally

Q How long from the time you first wrote it before your attention was again called to it when you showed it to the Governor?

A. I do not know. It might have been two days, and might have been a week.

Q. During that time Oliver P. Bragdon appeared on the list of Represent atives elected?

A. Yes, that is on the original tabulation. If you had that paper I lost you would find it so, I think

Q Examine the final tabulation or Docket made up for the Secretary of State, from which he was to make up his list, and state whether it appears plainly there that "Oliver P Bragdon" was written in

A It does not appear plainly. I can see the "O" and "P" and "B."

Q Then does it not appear plainly that "Oliver P Bragdon" was first written there?

A. Yes, I suppose there is not much doubt about it.

Q. What name does now appear written over it?

A "James Flye"

Q The tabulation or docket which you are examining is not the original?

A No

Q But the final docket made up for the Secretary of State to make his list from?

A I am very sure it is

Q So that, as late as that was written up, Oliver P. Bragdon's name was first written in?

A. Yes, it must have been

Q Look, also, in the same tabulation, at the figures, and see if it does not appear that the vote of Gouldsborough was first tabulated and counted for Oliver P. Bragdon, and that there has been a change in his total vote?

A. Yes

Q And does it not appear at that that the vote of Gouldsborough is carried out to Oliver B. Bragdon?"

A. Yes.

Q. Does it not appear that, in the column for "Oliver P Bragdon," for Gouldsborough, there had been an erasure?

A Yes.

Q. Does it appear that the footings for "Oliver P Bragdon" and "James Flye" have been changed?

A Yes,

As to the erasures Wm. C. Holt an expert testified:

Q. How have you examined the Representative return from Gouldsborough, and especially the name "Oliver B Bragdon" in the body of the return, and if so, state its appearance and what, if any, alteration has been made in it?

A It appears first to have been written "Oliver P. Bragdon," and, with different ink, changed to "B" or partially to a "B." There seems to have been an erasure, whether it was before or after that letter was written it is not possible to tell

Q Where does the erasure apply?

A On the lower part of the loop of the "B."

Q What now appears instead of the entire lower loop which would make it a "B?"

A About two thirds of the lower loop of the "B."

Q Is it clear, from your examination, that there was a change made at some different time and with different ink from the rest of the letter?

A. It is made with different ink, most assuredly, and, in this case, the line is quite unsteady, tremulous.

POLITICAL NOTES

Alabama responds with 60 000 majority to Wade Hampton's appeal to the South to "consider what Lee and Jackson would do were they alive. These are the same principles for which they fought for four years." The Northern Democratic press is not so enthusiastic over the victory as the figures ought to make it. Perhaps they realize that the size of the majority jars unpleasantly when uttered in the same breath with Hancock's shout for a free ballot, a full vote and a fair count.

The spirit of all its victories as mates the Republican party and will carry it to another triumph in November. Anybody who reads the speeches at the conference cannot fail to catch it himself

Hold on to that army commission, General Hancock. You'll want it

It is fitting that the opening gun of the Democratic campaign should come from the Solid South, for the tissue-ballot fraud assumes its proper place as the gonfalon of reconciliation and change

It is said that Gen Hancock and his staff will attend Boston's 250th anniversary celebration. Gen. Garfield is also being urged to accept the invitation to participate.

Gen. Adam E King, of Maryland, is the latest victim of the stereotyped Democratic falsehood about the veteran Republican who has come out for Hancock. He says, like all the others, that he as he has been, so he is, and so he intends to remain, a supporter of the Republican ticket.

In one voting place in Alabama 500 Republican votes were thrown away and 400 substituted in their place. There were votes collected by the bayonets of the State troops—very good instruments to make 500 Republican votes count 1100 for the Democratic ticket.

Two things have been made very evident as the canvass has proceeded. These are the following: First, the Independent vote is not with the Democrats; and second that political element is sure to go with the Republicans if the important issues involved in the campaign are given their due prominence and weight.

General Weaver came up from Alabama just before the election there. He says: "I used to think Tilden was fairly elected, but he was not. There has not been an election worthy of the name in Alabama for years. The voting is a farce throughout. They openly adopt every corrupt plan to solidify the different precincts of the Democratic party, and they invariably succeed. In the Black Belt, where the Republicans have three voters to the Democrat's one, the Democratic judges of election simply destroy tickets and supply their own. The law requires that the party having a minority shall have a representative among the judges. When one can be found, a blind negro is chosen; otherwise, either a Republican is bribed to serve their ends, or a mercenary Democrat is induced to identify himself with the Republican party solely for that purpose. Then, the ballot-box is elevated above the heads of the voters in such a way that after the ticket is entrusted to the judges a person outside cannot see what disposition is made of it. It is, therefore easy to destroy a vote or change it.

THE MURDERED MISSIONARY

A despatch from Constantinople to the London Times gives the following full details of the murder of Dr. Parsons, the American missionary, and his servant, near Izmid, several days since "Dr. Parsons, accompanied by an Armenian servant, was making a professional tour in the mountains east of Izmid, and encamped on the night of the 4th inst, by the roadside in the vicinity of some Zuruks, a semi nomadic tribe. The Zuruk shepherds who have since been arrested, confessed with complete composure that they shot the two travellers as they slept, and robbed them of their money, amounting to less than a pound. As Dr Parsons did not reach his destination at the expected time, and as his horses were found wandering about the hills his friends instituted a search, and their bodies were discovered under some bushes near the scene of the murder. The authorities, on hearing this, a despatch on the subject had been sent to the British embassy, showed more than the usual zeal, and by threatening whole sale arrests they induced the Zuruks to surrender the criminals, who are now in prison. As they are neither Circassians nor Bosnians, and have probably no influential protectors in the Palace, they may possibly be executed, but the fact of their being Mohammedans may put obstacles in the way of the ordinary judicial proceedings."

During the half century of American missionary enterprise in Turkey, this is only the third case of the murder of a missionary, and it is only just to the Turks to state that none of the crimes have proceeded from religious fanticism. The present state of public insecurity does not proceed from fanatical feeling, but from wholly different causes, for which the government is mainly responsible. Among these may be mentioned the system of sending Circassians, Lazes, and other warlike refugees into peaceful districts. A few days ago two large ship loads of Circassians and Lazes landed in the Gulf of Ismad, near the spot where Dr. Parsons was murdered. As it is pretty certain that no measures will be taken to give these lawless emigrants the means of gaining an honest living, we shall probably hear soon of other cases of robbery and murder from that district.

A MICHIGAN CASE FOR GARFIELD.

(From the Bay City (Mich) Tribune, Aug. 6.)

Shortly after the Presidential nominations were made, the Catholic ladies of Port Huron held a fair, at which one of the prominent features was a gold-headed cane, to be presented to the candidate receiving the largest number of votes from the adjoinants at the fair. When the votes were counted it was found that Gen. Garfield had a large majority over both Hancock and Weaver, and as the voters were nearly all Catholics, the result has a significance attached to it beyond ordinary events of this character. The cane was duly forwarded to Gen. Garfield, and the following letter is published in the Port Huron Times as his acknowledgment of its receipt:

MENTOR, Ohio, July 28th, 1880.

Mrs. Elizabeth Atkinson, President Port Huron Fair, Port Huron, Mich.

DEAR MADAM. Yours of the 9th inst., informing me of the result of the vote taken at your fair, and forwarding gold-headed cane, came duly to hand. Please accept for you and your associates my cordial thanks for the compliment and the kind terms in which it was presented. The cane came safely to hand, and will be treasured as a pleasant memorial of the kindness of you and your friends. Very truly yours, J. A. GARFIELD.

AT LAST the Hon. David Davis ceases to be a party all alone by himself, and goes over to Hancock.

NEWS AND MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

A Maryland farmer who was troubled by potato bugs, and didn't like to have such dangerous stuff as Paris green around, heated a big waste-boiler full of water out in the field, and hired six men to catch the bugs and pour them in the scalding water. An old piece of sheepskin-leather from shoe lining accidentally got in, and was dyed to a rich dark crimson shade. The olue to a fine potato bug dye was regarded so good that a fishy story was told of a $16,000 company being formed in Baltimore to push it, it was mostly told to the marines

Antonie Weber's wife went away from his Pittsburg home, and he could not learn where or why she had gone. The pair had lived happily and contentedly together, and the husband would not believe that she had willfully deserted him. Eight years passed without tidings of the missing woman. Then he accidently found her in an almshouse. She had been crazy until recently, and on recovering her reason could not clearly remember who she was, but the sight of the husband restored her completely

"SALVAGE," the latest addition to the popular No Name Series, is, as previously announced, a sea-story, or, at least, the principal incidents take place upon a steamer outward bound from Liverpool. The author has had in view a satire upon the divorce laws of this country, and the work is therefore the exact antithesis of Mme Greville's recent novel, "Lucie Rooby." Lancelot Wolcott a young gentleman of Southern birth and training is through the machinations of his mother and a disappointed love affair, drawn into a marriage with Adela Engels, daughter of a New York millionaire, simple, uninformed, just out of school. There is not much sympathy between the two, and the breaking out of the war completely alienates them from one another. Lancelot goes South and enlists in the Confederate army, while his young wife is a nurse in the Federal side. The war over, Lancelot, now Colonel Wolcott, excluded by the terms of amnesty from the country, makes his way to the Orient and produces a book of travels which makes his name momentarily famous in London, where he is tasting the delights of a social life at the opening of the story. Meanwhile, not hearing from his wife, he applies through his New York lawyers for a divorce in the courts of Indiana.

A letter informing him that he had a child, whom he has never seen, alters his determination and he starts post haste for Liverpool to sail for America, and stay the proceedings if possible. On the train he meets with a young widow, a handsome, intellectual woman, but is not recognized by her. They sail together on the Crimea and the main action of the novel follows. The plot of "Salvage" is not remarkable and the author manifests a tendency to twist the thread of her story in numerous instances. The chance meetings and a number of incidents have the air of being made to order, as if the author had some good fairy in mind and omitted to mention her existance. These faults, which unmistakably jar upon the symmetry of the story, indicate the novice in fiction and are very easily overcome. The style in which the book is written is on the other hand, singularly clear, straightforward and simple, while the descriptive passages of the voyage and wreck are perfectly accurate, and graphic in the extreme. "Salvage" is, therefore, a novel worth reading, and the lesson it bears is a needed one. It cannot be compared with the dull dozen Masterpieces already included in the No Name Series, but it indicates talent on the part of the author, which is sure to bring better novels from her. We can well remember when a boy of killing snakes. One night cut off the head and bruise the body of the reptile but the tail would show signs of life for a long time after. It used to be a common saying among the boys "the tail will not die until sundown." The Greenback party seems to be very much in this sort of a predicament. The head has been cut off, the body fearfully bruised and lacerated so that there is little signs of life in the organization, anywhere except in the tail down here in the State of Maine, that is wriggling majestically and handling the Democratic organization "right smart." Sundown of September 13th, however, will be the last of it. It cannot exist long with no head.—Somerset Reporter

Wonders will never cease. Even the Democratic newspapers appear to admit that a brutal outrage was committed on a harmless negro family near Atlanta, Ga., in which a young colored woman was killed and her brother probably mortally wounded. Verily, the world moves. We cannot see why the "bloody shirt" story was not raised as in duty bound.

OBITUARY. Joshua Chamberlain, Esq, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Brewer, died at his residence yesterday afternoon about five o'clock, at the ripe old age of 80 years, always having enjoyed nearly perfect health until the last few weeks. His whole life was spent in Brewer, and he was one of its prominent men, identifying himself with its interests and ever active in promoting its welfare. He was widely known throughout the county and State, served as County Commissioner for several years and filled other positions of honor and trust, indications of respect and good will on the part of his fellow citizens His judgment in business matters was excellent, and his financial sagacity unquestionable. He was dignified, quiet and unassuming in his manners, and for the last few years, having withdrawn form active business, has appeared to be enjoying his quiet and beautiful rural home. He leaves a wife, two sons, J. L. Chamberlain, President of Bowdoin College, and Thomas D., who holds a government office in Washington, D. C., and one daughter, the wife of Charles O. Farrington of Brewer.

THE MYSTERIOUS WOMAN. Some time since an item appeared in the WHIG giving an account of the peculiar actions of a woman who recently went to work in a Winthrop factory, and who, it was reported, caused quite a ferment in Winthrop gossip, by the air of mystery surrounding her. She claimed to have formerly worked in Lewiston; and to have been previous to that, a city missionary in Boston. She claimed she left Boston, because her folks did not use her well. She refused to tell their address, and told her boarding-mistress to simply bury her and send word to no one, if she died. A gentleman was in Lewiston, Monday, who has been for several weeks searching for a womnin named Adams who left Boston ten weeks ago, and thinks the Winthrop woman is the person he is hunting for. The gentleman is Mr. Wilbur Edwards, of Gardiner, who is employed by Mr. John Adams, of Lawrence, Mass, to hunt up his missing wife. Some of the particulars given in the description of the mysterious "Mary Adams" of Winthrop correspond with the description of the missing woman. When she left Boston, her folks thought she was coming to Lewiston after work. Mr. Edwards has learned that the woman was at Lisbon on the 17th of June, and left that place with the avowed purpose of coming to Lewiston. He can find no trace of her there. He went to Winthrop on the two o'clock train, Monday afternoon. Mr. Edwards thinks the woman is deranged.

PERSONAL An item appeared in these columns a few days since concerning the rumored resignation of Prof W. A. Pike of the State College We now learn that the Professor has resigned and is about to leave the State to accept the chair of Professor of Mechanical Engineering in the University of Minnesota, located at Minneapolis. The Professor has been connected with the State College, at Orono, for the past nine years, during a part of which period he has been in charge of both Civil and Mechanical Engineering, the latter of which was established in 1873 In the year 1876 he became much interested in what is known as the Russian system of technical education, and, having made himself master of the subject, he spent as much time and labor as his various duties to his classes would allow, in endeavoring to establish the system at the State College, and owing to the liberality of ex-Gov. Coburn, then President of the Board of Trustees, and others he was enabled to put it into practice there In the spring of 1878, the necessary arrangements having been made and materials procured, a class of thirteen commenced the course of instruction in vice work, which proved very successful, and was exceedingly gratifying to the students in that branch Later in the year, as a result of the constant labors of the Professor, a course of instruction in forge work was also established, the first class numbering sixteen. The work done in both these departments proved so satisfactory to the faculty and Trustees, that large classes have continued in each at the several terms since The success of these departments is largely, if not almost entirely, due to the Professor, who has labored with zeal before committees of the Legislature and elsewhere in public addresses and by exhibitions of work done in accordance with the rules of the system to show his hearers the correctness of the positions taken We shall regret to lose him from our State and especially will his loss be felt at the College with which he has been so long and favorably connected We learn that he will commence his labors in the University at the beginning of the next term, early in September next, and that his removal from the State will take place as soon as the needed arrangements can be made

THE TROTTING PARK.

Yesterday's Races—Programme for To-day.

The shower yesterday afternoon interfered seriously with the races at the Bangor Trotting Park, as it prevented many from going, and made it very late before the horses were started.

In the three minute class Gray Dan, Twilight and Monarch were started, the former winning the race after trotting four heats, the third being declared a dead heat, on account of the drivers pulling their horses. At times this was quite a pretty race, as the horses were kept well together, but it was evident from the first that either Twilight or Monarch were capable of winning had they not been pulled. The time was 2.50, 2.45, 2.54.

In the 2.37 class Eloise, Yellow Dog and Martha McClellan were started. The former won the first two heats in '38, but she then began to show the effects of the severe scoring and fell back so that Yellow Dog won the next three heats. Owing to the lateness of the hour we did not get the time

This afternoon some fine trotting is expected and will probably be witnessed by a large crowd. The following horses are entered,

TWO FIFTY CLASS

J P Gibbs enters	b m Mollie Morrill
Alden Fifield enters	ch g Monarch
Charles Robinson enters	blk s Carmel Boy

A HEAVY SHOWER.

Freaks of the Wind and Lightning.

At about two o'clock yesterday afternoon black clouds began to roll up in the heavens and in a few minutes one of the worst showers of the season was raging furiously The rain fell in torrents and during the storm it hailed quite hard and the wind blew a gale The squall came up so unexpectedly that there was not time to take in the large campaign banners in the square, and both of them were seriously damaged. The Republican banner was torn in several places and the Democratic banner had the name stripped from the bottom

The lightning was very sharp and struck in several places A tree on Grove street, near the residence of Wm S Dennett, Esq, was struck and a furrow plowed in the trunk. The residence of Henry Board man, Esq, on Lime street was also struck by lightning, A sister of Mr Boardman sitting by an open window, was thrown upon a lounge and did not recover from the shock for several hours A young son of Mr. Boardman, who was in the door yard received a slight shock which so bewildered him that he declared the staging upon which workmen were making repairs on the house had fallen on him

The workmen who were putting up conductors, received slight shocks upon their arms, one of whom was in doubt for a few moments whether he had any arms An elderly lady in the house also received a shock causing her considerable pain It is thought the many water pipes about the house had a tendency to carry off the most of the charge or there might have been more serious results

WHAT EX-GOVERNOR MORRILL SAYS

Messrs. G A Phillips & Co., Waterville, Me Gentlemen—The furnace you put into my house last fall has been tested through the winter, and has given the most perfect satisfaction, its working has fully sustained the high character you claimed for it. Its economical of coal for the heat it produces, suffers no escape of gas into the house, gives an even and pleasant temperature and can be managed by a woman as easily as the ordinary cooking range I commend this furnace as a valuable acquisition worthy of patronage.

Very truly,

HARD TIMES.

Many people have become mentally and nervously diseased from the depression caused by hard times, and suicides are shockingly frequent. It is cowardly to give way What is needed is a remedy to purify the blood which has become feverish and foul from wear and tear of brain and nerves Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" goes to the root of the matter. It cleanses the blood, gives tone and strength to the system, and cheer and hopefulness to the mind. Its cures are permanent. Try a bottle. "IT'S NO USE," HE SAID.

And we do not blame him for saying it. He was sick and in pain, he had been so for months. He had tried physicians' prescriptions and all the nostrums that had been recommended to him. So when a friend came in one night and said "I have known Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," actually to cure worse cases than yours," the weary answer was "It's no use, but I'll try it to please you Here's the dollar Go and get a bottle." It was done, and in a few weeks there was a new man in that town. In his gratitude he declared "When I am in Rondout, N Y, I'll stop in Dr. Kennedy's office, and tell him of this."—Exchange d&w1w aug6
